Just found a cool addon you should know about. Its called QuestHelper and eliminates a lot of toggling and looking up stuff in a browser. In addition to that, it organizes questing so that your quests are in a path and you can knock them out with the shortest distance possible. It draws lines on your map to let you know the order to do your quests and where to go. It also puts an arrow in your mini-map. If you're into leveling quick, give this a try. Just google QuestHelper by curse gaming.
